Presentation

As I am French, and Parisian: the aristocratic simplicity of the features of my face are softly framed by wavy hair, the balance of my garment whose regular folds are hardly enlivened by a slight sway of the hips, and even the wisdom of the small Jesus that blesses, all this suggests my creation at the end of the reign of the blessed Queen Jeanne of Navarre, who remained with us as Countess of Champagne... there is only my tall and sumptuous crown and maybe the lively colours that covered the wood of which I am made, that can attest on the artist's behalf to a more emphatic freedom of expression . The sceptre decorated with fleurs-de-lis that I held in my right hand, which has now gone, was there to accentuate my royal and slightly inaccessible character, like the recumbent figures of the «cursed kings» in the basilica of Saint-Denis.
