Protect the wildlife you love, across Northern Ireland, for future generations

Our precious wildlife and wild places are under serious threat, with climate change, plastic pollution and less and less space for nature our daily reality. But it doesn't have to be this way - the potential for nature to recover is huge.

How your gift could help

Increasingly our supporters are making the amazing decision to leave a gift to Ulster Wildlife in their Will.

Your gift, no matter the size, allows your passion for nature to live on and ensure those following in your footsteps can experience the amazing wildlife that calls Northern Ireland home.

Every gift in a Will allows us to protect and buy more nature reserves, save more species and ensure that future generations can experience nature.

Take a few minutes to see what amazing things have been achieved over the last year with help from our supporters:
