Wetland advice and how you can help us

Our Water and Wetlands Officers can offer help and advice on a range of wetland-related matters, from identifying wetland species to providing guidance on designing a new garden pond.

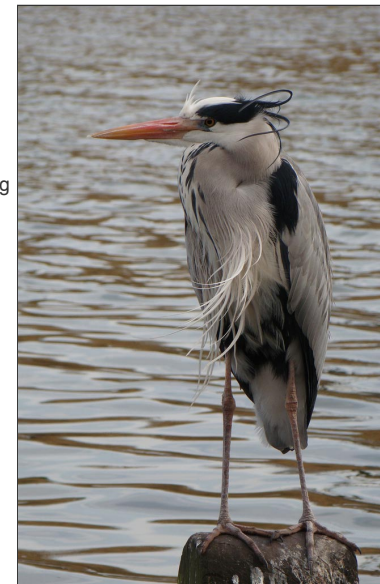

We can offer guidance on a range of issues including:

- Stewardship schemes for landowners
- Reedbed and pond creation and management
- Ditch management and pollution control

Please contact us if there is a specific type of work or project regarding water that you would like to know more about.

From time to time we also need help with wetland monitoring projects including otter and water vole surveys. If you'd like to get involved with this sort of work please contact us. For more information about volunteering on our wetland reserves please take a look at our volunteer pages to see how and where you can get involved in helping to protect wildlife on our wetland reserves.
