Welsh Marine: The Stakeholder View

Living Seas in Wales

Our marine environment is in trouble. Thankfully, it's not too late to turn this situation around. Our seas and sea life have a remarkable capacity to recover, and if we act now, Living Seas are within our grasp.

Living Seas is The Wildlife Trusts' vision for the future of our seas. We urgently need your help to bring back the UK's Living Seas, where marine life thrives from the depths of the ocean to the coastal shallows.

The Wildlife Trusts believe it is possible to achieve Living Seas around the UK within 20 years – a single generation – but only if opportunities are seized now to make radical changes over the next five years.

Wildlife Trusts Wales and the six individual Wildlife Trusts in Wales work in partnership to bring about our common aim of achieving Living Seas in Welsh waters. This is being realised through advancing our knowledge, influencing decision making and inspiring people about the richness of our marine environment.
