A Christmas Prayer for Divine Intrusion

by MELANNIE SVOBODA SND on DECEMBER 19, 2016

Christmas is a time to celebrate the coming of Jesus into our world and into our personal everyday lives. Here is a little poem I wrote for Christmas, but it can be prayed all year long.

“Prayer for Divine Intrusion”

God of infinite love, come into my life.

Walk beside me, hold my hand, pat me on the back when I need it.

Help me up when I fall down. Help me down when I’m puffed up.

Encourage me, support me. Inspire me, disarm me.

Broaden my vision. Expand my understanding.

Inflame my heart with love for all who enter the circle of my life,

But especially for those in need.

Listen to my cries, my sighs, my silence.

Say yes to me. Say no to me.

Feed me, need me. Hug me, bug me.

Teach me to say I'm sorry. Teach me to say I forgive.

Set high standards for me. Make demands upon me.

Never mistake my stubborn NO! to you as my final answer.

Free me from my tendency to wrap around myself.

Enlarge my world. Direct my attention to all that really matters.

Fill my life with your signs, and help me to notice and interpret them wisely.

Accept me as I am,

But keep nudging me to be a better version of who I already am.

Melt my coldness. Smooth my rough edges.

About Sunflower Seeds

Each Monday I'll post a short reflection, a simple musing on some aspect of spirituality– the everyday kind of spirituality that includes things like walking in the park, slicing an onion for the casserole, caring for a child, studying for an exam, reading a line from scripture, laughing at a joke, or mourning a significant loss.

Along the way I welcome your questions, comments and insights too. After all, we're all in this life–this spiritual life–together!

Play with me, dance with me, weep with me, laugh with me.

Help me to live less cautiously.

Keep telling me to grow up. Keep telling me to be more childlike.

Bless me with a ton of patience,

But never let me be completely satisfied with the way things are.

Increase my thirst for you. Deepen my trust in you.

Love me. Love me. Love me.

Amen.

I'm offering two songs for you. The first is the traditional "Silent Night" sung by the Daughters of St. Paul, a choir of nuns. The second is a contemporary song sung by Faith Hill: "A Baby Changes Everything." I'd add: especially this particular baby!

"Silent Night":

"A Baby Changes Everything":

Any responses to the poem, the songs, or Christmas itself?

Merry Christmas, Sister. Thank you for your wonderful poem, I always forget to ask Jesus for dances and His love. You always find the best music too as I have not heard of The Baby song by Faith Hill.

I wish you a Christmas and New Year blessed by Jesus for great health, continued wisdom and the joy of His love and many dances.

Blessings always,

Charlene

Sister Melannie,

What a beautiful poem! The title itself – “Divine Intrusion” – is a poem! And the line “Listen to my cries, sighs, and silence” – what wonderful music! What a delightful prayer! What a gift you are!

Merry Christmas!

I read You each week and look forward to your writings. When are you coming to Pittsburgh Pa? So enjoyed your last visit too long ago. Blessed and Merry Christmas! Peggy

Sr. Melannie...loved your prayer and plan on using it often...the song A Baby Changes Everything hit a nerve close to my heart. My daughter had a baby boy this past year. Her son's were 15, 13 and 10. They thought their family was complete but God had other plans. He is such a joy and blessing. On holidays, I get the food on, we say Grace and I get to rock the baby while everyone eats. So as I get to rock my baby and listen to family chatter, I will pray for all of you, especially for Sr. Melamine for enriching my life. God Bless.

Your beautiful prayer has become part of my daily meditation - one phrase a day in the early morning will be the theme to work on to improve my relationship with the Lord. Maybe by this time next year some of my rough edges will have been smoothed out. I deeply appreciate your weekly reflections.
