Financial matters

Your 50+ customer may raise general financial issues with you and need information on how to plan for the future. This section provides some suggestions you can make to help them take stock of their financial situation and plan ahead.

With increases in life expectancy, both men and women may expect to live a healthy 20 years beyond their retirement age so a financial evaluation in mid-life can pay dividends by identifying potential problems or providing reassurance that money is available to meet changing needs.
