As per my view this site to be used for sharing of knowledge. But some are used this for repeated stories, jokes and so many other material which are not upto the mark. Only one purpose solved from this, your scorecard increase due to submit of new thread and reply of that. All are requested please stop these, because time also waste of others due to open and closed of this type of thread. May be others are not agree from me.

you are right man.. most of the files submitted are the ones that are submitted earlier.. there is no proper filter for suh files which find their way again and again.. There are also some useless threads being opened without absolutely little relevance to the matter on hand (the CA exams) like the one by a person that the exams are postponed this november..
