@AKASH GARG (#learning to excel#) 23 May 2019

I have discussed it before and this time in detail.

I have been in depression for years.

Now when I faced the harsh reality check along with harsh reality of Corporate Life with all sort of toxic environment at workplace and at home as well.

I am taking medicines and also working on my physical fitness and has made my mind to go for group 2 and then grp 1 in next attempt.

I am 29. I just want to know my english is not so well considering keywords and vocabulary and not my native language.

I do not have any computer skill and general information.

I am not much aware about technical aspects related to security and other common day to day commercial activities like paytm uses, online banking etc.

No experience of my field.

Nor do I know about area to get expertise.

I have no courage to go for Corporate job again..

Personally I don't know many such things.

GST certification

All I have a willingness to know and then learn about many things related to profession and an occupation that can give me a good remaining life.

I had dreams. But now everything appears to be so far and all I will have will be just a degree which I will earn due to my intelligence but not as passion.

For practice I have a friend but no other idea regarding anything other than this.

I need a friendly advice.

I won't get married...I know...but at least I will have something called happiness if anyone would guide me well.

After CA I want to move to Bangalore but I will just have a degree in my hand and experience of some copy paste job in a BPO.

Also a gap till I become a CA.

I am literally crying now.

I came a long way and still fighting.

Please help as much as possible.

f accepting things,don expect .just have a perception that you will put in your efforts and what ever u get is urs. Don over think and think too far,just take one aim at a time. Make sure you excercise now for your depression and study for ur exams.Give the exams find a job tat can self sustain you based on your need. Take one step at time don look at the big st aircae and be lost...just one step at a time.

If u want your life will be happy then u leave ur depression right now and start to think in new way. u forget about your age, past experiences, fear etc ..that will bring u back. u know your capability and u only do what u do.so don't expect a nything from anybody. u motivate yourself. if you work/think smart not hard , one fine day u r happiness is in your hand s.

Dear all at least guide me to know on the areas I lack. I have came out of depression and has motivated many others during the phase. I think you guys have made some misconception and it's natural. I am preparing for my exams group by group but after a year all that I will have in my hand will be a degree. No exposure in taxation and finance and other areas. I want some good guidance if I want to switch to Bangalore due to good and amiable weather/environment which I believe is a need for me along with some adequate work culture unlike big firms and companies who are just making work life balance a dream and no room for other personal desires. I hope I conveyed myself well. Its my second innings of life. Matters a lot.

Thanks
