can't buy...

Many of us associate money to happiness. To a certain extent money may be important, in order to fulfill basic needs and responsibilities towards the well being of self, family, community and loved ones.

But beyond a point money cannot replace relationships. It cannot buy happiness. It cannot make you truly rich.....

Those who dont, they will say life is all about money.

But the fact is those who give importance to this material world , for them money is essential to take care of their perishable body.

Money will only make you materialistically rich, but to be mentally and heartily rich, u need a lot more than money.. Those are the things that money can't buy, and for everything else, its ur character..
