Yesterday I was discussing some matter with a friend who is doing B.ED Suddenly he told me in student psychology chapter he has studied Students who are intelligent in Maths or comfortable with numbers are mostly self centered, self disciplined, introvert and serious kind.

I drew a parallel with C.A's who day and night revolves around numbers, If this conclusion is true.

Can we conclude " all study no play makes a person C.A "

I invite members view on the subject:

M.B.A C.A Difference, Hardship of C.A Course ,Complaining about C.A Institute and course.Worried about carrer or future or placement status,Diverse views about utility of a book

Except Mr. jose who is full of wittiness, humor others are simply predictable, worried , and sad

I have just been advised by one member in a thread relating to cricket to restrict views to CA Course . And told to hold nonsense thoughts.

With such a narrow mindset how can you people dream of competing with M.B.A's,

Where institutes makes it mandatory to recruit students from diverse fields, age , profession so that to create an environment of all around learning.

I think with introduction of IPCC one has 2.5 years for preparation for final. He has sufficient time Still ???????????????

There is no diversity in thoughts

Any comment Please ???????????????????????

Please accept my apolgy in advance if I have distracted you from your study.
