I do not think it will benefit at all. Since the applying, the name facility was still there in SPICE Form But people use to apply through RUN to avoid the duplicity of drafting documents in case the name gets rejected. Now the user will have to suffer, if the name gets rejected and to draft the whole documents again just for changing name of the company documents. However, nowadays only one document i.e. INC-9 Affidavit is there where the name of the company is being written at time of filing incorporation documents. If such a facility is being given that no need to mention the name, maybe that can be helpful to the user.
