Implementing script tutorial

Implementing the Footprint javascript is easy

When you sign up for Footprint you enter your email address.

We will send you an email which contains your unique tracking javascript. In order to start watching your traffic live and collecting data all you need to do is place that javascript in the source code of your website.

Static pages

You need to use your html editor to upload the javascript to your site. You can use any editing program; Dreamweaver, Textmate, Coda, etc

To avoid any potential conflicts (none documented), we recommend that you place the javascript just before the end body tag of your html content.

Dynamic pages and content

If your site has dynamically generated pages, inserting the script in your footer will implement the script sitewide with a few clicks.

Content management with Wordpress, Joomla, Blogger, etc.

Footprint can also be used in conjunction with any content management system; Wordpress, Joomla, Blogger, Drupal, etc
